You don't need to go far to find a great Limerick restaurant, because on the first floor of the Absolute hotel you will find Harry's which is as vibrant and diverse as Limerick City itself. Named after one of the city's first entrepreneurs, Sir Harry Hartstonge, who once lived at the end of the Mall adjacent to the historical Baal's Bridge.

Only the finest quality regional produce is used including Ballyagran Salad Leaves from Co. Limerick and steaks from Enda Aherns, Co. Limerick. In fact, the beef can be traced right back to the field from which it came.
